In a world where it's good to be prepared, you know that you can never be too careful. You have an emergency kit, you have a safety spot where everyone will meet if there's a disaster, and you have an emergency supply of food in case something really goes wrong.

You have emergency phone numbers posted, and you know who you will call for a variety of situations. It would seem you are ready for anything... and that may be true.

But, for as prepared as you are... is the rest of your family prepared? Do you know for sure everyone in your family will be able to handle anything that comes up, whenever it happens?

There are times when we feel that our kids automatically know what to do, when they really don't. We assume because they see us getting ready for what might happen, that they, too, will be prepared for anything.

But, more often than not, kids don't know how to handle the various situations that come their way, and they don't know what to do when unexpected things happen. Children expect things to go as planned, every time, and when things don't, they get upset or even panic.

But, when your child knows how to handle a situation, or what to do when things go bad, they are able to handle anything that comes their way. It's up to you to teach them how to handle these situations as they arise, and what to do in the unexpected times.

- Learn how to prepare your child for a variety of situations
- Learn how to give your child the confidence he needs to succeed
- Have fun while you practice with your child
- Rest easy knowing your child is prepared for anything
- And more!
