Do you feel... ..as if you're waiting for life to start? Maybe you think life will start when you go to college, fall in love, make a fortune, or become a great success. Until that happens, are you content to float, to wander through these years wondering what your purpose is in life? We all desire to do great things, yet few of us seize the moment and take advantage of the launching pad that is this phase of life. We are all writing stories with our lives. Some of us write stories of faithfulness, but others write stories filled with nonsense and wasted opportunities. Once their story is done, they'll scramble for an eraser, but they won't find one- by then it'll be too late. In this book you'll find examples of girls who stopped waiting for life to start- and are instead using these years of their lives to make a real difference. By using the ideas and practical advice found in these pages, you will find a roadmap to the place where you too can take your time and, by God's grace, invest it doing things that are truly worthwhile and rewarding.
